

STANLEY KETCHEL BEATS J. O'BRIEN

Philadelphian Practically Out at End of Ten Fast Rounds.

SHOWED GREAT GAMENESS

Knocked Down Three Times in Final Session—Both Men Badly Punished—Good Preliminaries.

National Athletic Club, New York, March 26.—Not since the repeal of the Horton law, which stopped the big fistic bouts in this city, has such a fast and furious contest been seen here in the squared circle as that tonight, in which Stanley Ketchel, the middleweight champion, defeated Jack O'Brien of Philadelphia at the National Athletic club. Many thought O'Brien would do some stalling in this fight, but every one who saw the fight was agreeably surprised, for it was a hot bout from start to finish.

In the final round O'Brien was knocked down three times, and the last time was practically a clean knockout, for one third of a dozen rounds the Philadelphia man in a honest state. It was Ketchel's night for the greatest part of the contest, and O'Brien has no excuse to make over the outcome.

Tim Hurst was referee. The men weighed in at noon today, each tipping the scales at 160 pounds.

There were three preliminary bouts, one of which resulted in a knockout. Freddie Dippins of Brooklyn stopping Andy Parker of New Haven in less than two minutes of the first round.

O'Brien was the man in the center ring. He wore bandages on both hands. One of his prominent helpers was Anthony Drexel Biddle of Philadelphia, Kid McCoy, and John O'Farrell.

Round 1.—Both men struck evidently in the best of condition. O'Brien wore green trunks and Ketchel wore long red trunks. Both landed a low left hook, but O'Brien's object was more considered by the referee. They clinched several times. Ketchel forcing O'Brien around the ring. A left hook raised a lump over O'Brien's eye. He landed a hard right under the heart and a left hook to the jaw, which stopped Ketchel. O'Brien with a right to the face sent Ketchel down a bit, but the Philadelphia man was blowing the worse after the windup.

Round 2.—O'Brien forced the milling but Ketchel started to force the fight. O'Brien was short on right and left swings. O'Brien sent left and right hooks to the head and feet, but in the middle of the round he began to hold. Ketchel landed a powerful right swing on the eye and O'Brien begged for safety and was groggy as the bell rang.

Round 3.—Ketchel rushed and forced O'Brien to the ropes. The Philadelphia man was holding. Ketchel was calm and collected. O'Brien showed signs of nervousness. O'Brien uppercut to the nose and left to the face, but there was no force behind the blows. O'Brien missed a left hook to the face and Ketchel begged his opinion.

Round 4.—Ketchel rushed O'Brien to the ropes with body blows and then with a right swing opened a gash over O'Brien's right eye. O'Brien tried two left hooks ineffectually. O'Brien straightened up and sent three surpisingly fast left hooks to the jaw, knocking Ketchel groggy. Ketchel had had like a demon with a left hook to the face, and O'Brien slowed up. Both men were strong, but O'Brien closed the round with two rights to the jaw.

BOTH MEN PUNISHED.

Round 5.—They came to a clinch. Ketchel landed a left hook to the jaw. O'Brien jabbed his left hand in the face and the blood started from Ketchel's nose. O'Brien outgeneraled his man in this round. He landed a left to the jaw, which stopped Ketchel. He sent two lefts to the face, making Ketchel groggy.

Round 6.—Up to this time Ketchel's famous left shift had not been in use. They again rushed to a clinch and fought each other at close quarters. Although Ketchel was the slower he was same and determined. O'Brien sent left and right hooks to the jaw at the bell. Ketchel turned the tide against Ketchel and hit him in the corner.

Round 7.—Both men were wild when they came out. Ketchel sent in two lefts to the face, followed by a right, which was a hard left on the stomach. O'Brien uppercut heavily on the face, but broke ground on the right. Ketchel began forcing. O'Brien sent back right and left, stopping Ketchel. A right uppercut followed, which was a left to the face and two right swings to the jaw turned the tide against Ketchel and hit him in the corner.

Round 8.—Both men were sick. At the opening O'Brien sent two left hooks to the jaw and swung his right over, staggering Ketchel. O'Brien was too tired to take advantage of Ketchel's distress. At this stage O'Brien's ring gear was apparent and he landed a stiff hook on Ketchel's injured nose before the bell rang.

FIRST BALL GAME TODAY.

Varsity Meets Republicans on Cummins Field This Afternoon.

A practice name of baseball is being played on Cummins field this afternoon between the Varsity nine and the Republicans. The men have been out practicing every day and will keep on the work until they are in top form.

Next Saturday the state intercollegiate league opens with a game between the Varsity and the D. S. U., and there is a great deal of interest centered in the contest.
